

MORA COUNTY COMMUNITY PROFILE

(This profile is currently being updated- April 15, 2015)

Mora County's landscape is defined by the Majestic Sangre de Cristo Mountains and Pristine Valleys on its western edge, the Mora River running the length of the County from west to east, and the open range land of central and eastern Mora. Mora's economic activity centers on its natural resources. Logging, farming and ranching predominate while hunting and fishing "tourism" is a growing business.

Most of Mora's population is located in the Mora River Valley and most of the current farming and logging occurs there while ranching predominates in the central and eastern part of the County. The Mora Valley along Highway 518 benefits from a large number of "drive through" tourists on their way to Angel Fire, Taos and other resort towns to the north. Interstate 25 runs north-south near the eastern third of the County passing through the villages of Watrous and Wagon Mound, the only incorporated municipality in the County. Fort Union National Monument off of I-25 is a significant tourist destination.

Mora is home to the Mora National Fish Hatchery and Technology Center whose mission is preservation of endangered fish species, and the Mora Research Center, a New Mexico State University Research center for forest genetics and conservation. Luna Community College also has a campus in Mora.

Investment opportunities in the Mora Valley would generally include providing more retail services and outlets featuring local craftspeople. Bed and Breakfast establishments have a built-in market due to the tourists passing through Mora on Highway 518. Opportunities in the eastern part of the County along I-25 at Wagon Mound or Watrous could include motels, restaurants, and souvenir/arts and craft outlets focused on the local culture, Santa Fe Trail and Fort Union National Monument.

- Land area in square miles 1,931.27
- Persons per square miles 2.5
- FIPS Code 033

Mora County is located in the Northeast quadrant of New Mexico. Access to the eastern part of the County is via Interstate 25. The town of Wagon Mound lies along I-25 approximately half way between the county's southern and northern boundaries. From the North, the distance to Wagon Mound from the Colorado border is 73 miles and from the South it is 42 miles from Las Vegas, 105 miles from Santa Fe.

The majority of the population in the Western part of the County is along Highway 518 in the towns of Mora (County Seat), Cleveland, and Holman. Access from the South and East would be via Las Vegas via Highway 518 through Buena Vista. Mora is approximately 30 miles from Las Vegas and 92 miles from Santa Fe. Access to from the North and East would be Highway I-25 to Wagon Mound and then approximately 50 miles via Highways 120 and 442.

Access to Mora from the West is via Highway 518. The distance from Taos to Mora via Highway 518 is approximately 45 miles and from Santa Fe via Espanola it is approximately 90 miles via Highways 84, 68, 75 and 518.

The closest major cities are Albuquerque NM 165 miles, Denver CO 326 miles, and Amarillo TX. Residents of Mora County tend to go to larger surrounding cities such as Las Vegas, Taos, Santa Fe and Raton, NM for everyday goods and services.

Housing:

- Housing Units: 3,232
- Housing units in multi unit structures: 0.6%

- Home ownership Rate: 82.2%
- Median Value of owner occupied units: $111,900
- Households 2136
- Persons per household 2.35
- Hispanic Households 1585

The number of occupied housing units was 2,017, or 67.8 of the total units in town. Of these, 1,663 were owner-occupied (82.4) and 354 were renter-occupied (17.6, compared to the national average of 33.80%). There were also 956 vacant homes in Mora at the time of the last complete survey.

The total number of single family, owner occupied homes in the community was 719.

For homes with a mortgage, average monthly owner costs were $744 (national average was $1,088). For homes without a mortgage in Mora, average costs per month were $226 (national average was $295).

Property available for sale in Mora County is predominantly vacant land. Lot sizes range from a little more than an acre to hundreds of acres. Topography varies from prairie to valley flats to steep-sloped and rocky mountain-front. A majority of available land is sloped and wooded or partially wooded. Land adjacent to acequias or rivers may have water rights. Property prices are variable but range from hundreds of dollars per acre to tens-of –thousands of dollars per acre.

Buildings for sale are predominantly single-family homes on small lots (less than 5 ac) but some homes may be situated on large parcels of land. Commercial listings are rare but there are buildings in Mora County suitable for commercial enterprises (retail, service and possibly light manufacturing). Most of these are in the Mora town site, Wagon Mound and Watrous.

Building types, condition and age are variable. Commercial buildings may date back to the early 20th- century or territorial days. Many homes are traditional adobe construction or a combination of adobe and framed elements. Manufactured housing, both single- and double-wide types, is common. Most homes located outside of town sites have residential water wells and septic systems, grid-tied electricity, and rely on propane and/or wood heat. In some cases, far from power lines, off-the-grid power systems, primarily solar, are employed.

Mora County History

The area now known as Mora County and particularly the Mora River Valley has attracted inhabitants and travelers for centuries. The Jicarilla Apaches were some of the earliest inhabitants. The Spanish Conquistadors traveled through the Mora valley in the 1600's and Mora's streams and mountains attracted French and German trappers in the 1700's.

Already by 1835 there were three thriving settlements in the valley and the town of Mora was the most significant town between Santa Fe and Taos. Wagon Mound served as a stop on the railroad for ranchers to get their cattle, sheep and wool to markets. It was where east and west routes of the Santa Fe Trail came together before heading to Santa Fe and Taos. By the mid 1800's, Mora's population was one of the most ethnically diverse within New Mexico with many tracing their ancestry to Native American, Spanish, French, German and other "Anglo" forbearers.

The Santa Fe Trail traversed the eastern part of Mora, and Fort Union was established to provide protection along the trail. The Mora Valley has always been a fertile area, but the demands of Fort Union for wheat flour sparked an agricultural boom. For decades Mora was known as the breadbasket of New Mexico and the several flour mills still standing are reminders of Mora's farming history. After the closing of Ft Union in 1891, Mora began a gradual economic decline as the costs of small farm production and shipping put Mora at a disadvantage in agricultural production.

Events

There are four significant events in Mora County each year. They are the Mora Fiestas, the Cleveland Mill, and Bean Day in Wagon Mound and Watrous Day.

Mora Fiestas: The Fiestas is a tradition going back over a hundred year. It takes place annually the last weekend of July. Activities include the parade, rodeo, dances, and street fair. On Friday evening the Fiestas Dance and crowning of the Fiestas Queen start off the weekend festivities. On Saturday at 10AM is the Fiestas parade. The rodeo and street fair with food and entertainment continue through Sunday.

Mora Mill Fest: The Mill Fest is held Saturday and Sunday of Labor Day weekend at the Cleveland Roller Mill. Arts and crafts, entertainment, food, and an opportunity to see the only working mill in the area in operation.

Bean Day: Bean Day observed its 100th year in 2010 and it is still going strong. It is an annual celebration with a rodeo, cook-offs, and dances, plus a free BBQ lunch. Bean Day is held on the Monday of Labor Day weekend in Wagon Mound.

wagonmoundnm.com/beanday/index.html

Watrous Day is held every 3rd Saturday in August. The village provides a free lunch in the Local Park, music and chance to relax with friends and family.

Museums and Historic Places

Cleveland Roller Mill Museum: The Cleveland Roller Mill, situated on the Mora River just a few miles west of Mora, is a fully restored and operating water-powered flour mill from the days when the Mora Valley was the premiere wheat growing area of New Mexico. Every year on Labor Day weekend, the Mill is in operation during the Cleveland Mill Fest. The Cleveland Roller Mill is on the National Register of Historic Places. It is located in Cleveland, New Mexico, near mile marker 31 on Highway 518. It is open to the public only on weekends from Memorial Day through Labor Day, 10:00 AM to 3:00 PM.

Fort Union National Historic Monument: Fort Union National Monument is located on the ruins of historic Fort Union, the largest military installation of the 19th century Southwest. It is situated on the Santa Fe Trail and ruts from the wagons can still be seen at Fort Union today. Today, only the ruins of the post's buildings remain and the park service is preserving these ruins as an outdoor museum and as a memorial to those who helped build this region of the west. Fort Union is located on Highway 161, eight miles from Interstate exit number 366, at Watrous, New Mexico. Operating hours are 8:00 am to 6:00 pm from Memorial Day through Labor Day and 8:00 am through 4:00 the rest of the year.

La Cueva Mill/Salman Ranch: Salman Ranch and its buildings make up most of the La Cueva National Historic District. Significant structures include an historic roller mill, the San Rafael Mission church, and a period mercantile building. Visitors can shop in the Salman Ranch Store featuring Salman Ranch products and local crafts. The store is open 9:00 AM to 5:00 PM daily from June through December. From August through usually mid-October, the Ranch operates its "you pick it" raspberry farm. Hours are 10:00 am to 4:00 PM daily.

The St. Vrain Mill is an excellent example of the many mills that dotted the Mora Valley in the late 1800's. It was built in the 1864 by Ceren St. Vrain, one of the most prominent men in region in the mid 1800's, and operated until 1922. The mill is located on Highway 434 just a few hundred yards north of the intersection of Highways 518 and 434 in Mora. Due to its condition, it is closed to the public but can be viewed from a short distance.

Wagon Mound: The "Wagon Mound" was the last significant natural landmark on the Santa Fe Trail and a major stopping point for travelers coming from the east. The distinctive covered wagon profile could be seen from dozens of miles away. Today Wagon Mound is the first stop in Mora County for those following the Santa Fe Trail. Visitors to Wagon Mound can visit the Santa Clara Cemetery at the foot of the Wagon Mound Hill to see historic graves and a giant rosary made of volcanic rock. The Wagon Mound Veterans Memorial was created three years ago by Wagon Mound Vietnam Veterans. The park is on the north side of Highway 120 that takes you to Roy. Across the Street, El Jardin de Wagon Mound, a village community garden, provides fresh vegetables for community residents in the summer. Wagon Mound, like many villages in the northern New Mexico, is a basketball town. The village has taken state championships in basketball three times including in 2012. Wagon Mound is at Exit 387 on I-25.

Mora County Historic Districts/National Register of Historic Sites:

La Cueva: Significant structures include an historic roller mill, the San Rafael Mission church, and a period mercantile building. Located at Mile Marker 24 on Highway 518, about five miles east of Mora Mora: Forty one acres with 65 contributing structures in the town of Mora. St. Vrain Mill lies in the district and is on the National Register of Historic Places.

Cleveland Roller Mill: The Cleveland Roller Mill a fully restored and operating water-powered flour mill is located at MM 31 on Highway 518, a few miles west of Mora.

Guadalupita/Coyote Historic District:
